

Expanding Access to Educational Services Through International Academic Collaboration

Holy Child Central Colleges, Inc. (HCCCI) supports access to educational services by bringing specialized knowledge and international academic expertise closer to its students and faculty. On May 23, 2025, HCCCI welcomed Prof. Dr. Tasya Aspiranti of Universitas Islam Bandung (UNISBA), Indonesia, for the VISION seminar on business research, digital transformation, and office technologies. This initiative served as an educational access programme by providing participants with opportunities to learn from an international academic expert and gain knowledge relevant to their academic and professional development.

Through this initiative, participants gained access to specialized expertise and learning opportunities that might otherwise require additional resources or international travel. By utilizing its campus facilities and institutional partnerships, HCCCI brought educational services directly to its academic community, making professional learning and knowledge-sharing more accessible to students and faculty.

The seminar demonstrates HCCCI's commitment to organizing programmes that improve access to essential services, particularly education and professional development. By reducing barriers to specialized learning and providing opportunities for academic enrichment within the institution, HCCCI helps strengthen participants' knowledge, skills, and capacity to pursue further education and career advancement. Through international collaboration and accessible educational activities, the institution contributes to more inclusive access to learning services and supports the broader goal of promoting social and economic inclusion within its academic community.
